NOTE:

The dolphins on this page and items shown on subsequent pages are not pictures of items for sale. I've inserted them so that final pages will not be blank when the catalog is printed in a booklet layout.

With "standard" printing, one can easily exclude blank pages that occur at the end of a document. This is not possible when printing a booklet layout; blank pages cannot be excluded in a booklet layout. Blank pages will result with booklet-layout printing whenever the total number of pages in the original file is not evenly divisible by "4." In such cases, the number of pages for a booklet printout will be increased to the next greater page total that is evenly divisible by "4" regardless of whether or not the original document contains any blank pages at its end.

Remember: 1 sheet of paper corresponds to 4 pages in a booklet! When an app must add a sheet of paper to accommodate printing the last page(s) of this catalog in a booklet layout, that 1 sheet of paper adds 4 pages to the catalog. Any of the additional pages in the catalog that have no content will print as blank pages at the end of the catalog. I added the content on pages 15 and 16 solely to prevent blank pages when this catalog is printed in booklet layout.
